Disclaimer

Specifications are updated over time. Whilst every effort is made to check all documents, there may be contradictions between published resources and the specification, therefore please use the information on the latest specification at all times. Where changes are made to specifications these will be indicated within the document, there will be a new version number indicated, and a summary of the changes. If you do notice a discrepancy between the specification and a resource please contact us at: resources.feedback@ocr.org.uk

We will inform centres about changes to specifications. We will also publish changes on our website. The latest version of our specifications will always be those on our website (ocr.org.uk) and these may differ from printed versions.

Support and Guidance

Introducing a new specification brings challenges for implementation and teaching, but it also opens up new opportunities. Our aim is to help you at every stage. We are working hard with teachers and other experts to bring you a package of practical support, resources and training.

Subject Advisors

OCR Subject Advisors provide information and support to centres including specification and non-exam assessment advice, updates on resource developments and a range of training opportunities.

Our Subject Advisors work with subject communities through a range of networks to ensure the sharing of ideas and expertise supporting teachers and students alike. They work with developers to help produce our specifications and the resources needed to support these qualifications during their development.

You can contact our Religious Studies Subject Advisors for specialist advice, guidance and support:

Teaching and learning resources

Our resources are designed to provide you with a range of teaching activities and suggestions that enable you to select the best activity, approach or context to support your teaching style and your particular students. The resources are a body of knowledge that will grow throughout the lifetime of the specification, they include:

- Delivery Guides
- Transition Guides
- Topic Exploration Packs
- Lesson Elements.

We also work with a number of leading publishers who publish textbooks and resources for our specifications. For more information on our publishing partners and their resources visit: ocr.org.uk/qualifications/resource-finder/publishing-partners

Professional development

Our improved Professional Development Programme fulfils a range of needs through course selection, preparation for teaching, delivery and assessment. Whether you want to look at our new digital training or search for training materials, you can find what you're looking for all in one place at the CPD Hub: cpdhub.ocr.org.uk

An introduction to new specifications

We run training events throughout the academic year that are designed to help prepare you for first teaching and support every stage of your delivery of the new qualifications.

To receive the latest information about the training we offer on GCSE and A Level, please register for email updates at: ocr.org.uk/updates

Assessment Preparation and Analysis Service

Along with subject-specific resources and tools, you'll also have access to a selection of generic resources that focus on skills development, professional guidance for teachers and results data analysis.

1 Why choose an OCR A Level in Religious Studies?

1a. Why choose an OCR qualification?

Choose OCR and you've got the reassurance that you're working with one of the UK's leading exam boards. Our new A Level in Religious Studies course has been developed in consultation with teachers, employers and Higher Education to provide learners with a qualification that's relevant to them and meets their needs.

We're part of the Cambridge Assessment Group, Europe's largest assessment agency and a department of the University of Cambridge. Cambridge Assessment plays a leading role in developing and delivering assessments throughout the world, operating in over 150 countries.

We work with a range of education providers, including schools, colleges, workplaces and other institutions in both the public and private sectors. Over 13,000 centres choose our A Levels, GCSEs and vocational qualifications including Cambridge Nationals and Cambridge Technicals.

Our Specifications

We believe in developing specifications that help you bring the subject to life and inspire your learners to achieve more.

We've created teacher-friendly specifications based on extensive research and engagement with the teaching community. They're designed to be straightforward and accessible so that you can tailor the delivery of the course to suit your needs. We aim to encourage learners to become responsible for their own learning, confident in discussing ideas, innovative and engaged.

We provide a range of support services designed to help you at every stage, from preparation through to the delivery of our specifications. This includes:

- A wide range of high-quality creative resources including:
  - Delivery Guides
  - Transition Guides
  - Topic Exploration Packs
  - Lesson Elements
  - ... and much more.
- Access to Subject Advisors to support you through the transition and throughout the lifetime of the specification.
- CPD/Training for teachers to introduce the qualifications and prepare you for first teaching.
- Active Results – our free results analysis service to help you review the performance of individual learners or whole schools.

All A Level qualifications offered by OCR are accredited by Ofqual, the Regulator for qualifications offered in England. The accreditation number for OCR's A Level in Religious Studies is QN:601/8868/6.

1b. Why choose OCR's A Level in Religious Studies?

OCR's A Level in Religious Studies has been developed in consultation with teachers and stakeholders from a variety of institutions. The content has been designed to provide a coherent and thought-provoking programme of study for both teachers and learners, whilst also acting as a rigorous course of study which prepares learners for progression to Higher Education.

This qualification is designed to develop a greater understanding and appreciation of religious beliefs and teachings, as well as the disciplines of ethics and philosophy of religion. Learners will develop their skills of critical analysis in order to construct balanced, informed arguments and responses to religious, philosophical and ethical ideas.

OCR's A Level Religious Studies course aims to engage learners thoroughly and develop an interest in Religious Studies which extends beyond the classroom and can be applied to the world around them.

Aims and learning outcomes

OCR's A Level in Religious Studies will encourage learners to:

- develop their interest in a rigorous study of religion and belief and relate it to the wider world
- develop knowledge and understanding appropriate to a specialist study of religion
- develop an understanding and appreciation of religious thought and its contribution to individuals, communities and societies
- adopt an enquiring, critical and reflective approach to the study of religion
- reflect on and develop their own values, opinions and attitudes in the light of their study.

1c. What are the key features of this specification?

The key features of OCR's A Level in Religious Studies are:

- three components, each with clear and well-defined content and strong supporting materials
- a choice of five major world religions for in depth study, allowing you to choose the most appropriate and interesting approach for you and your learners
- a co-teachable specification allowing for the AS Level in Religious Studies to be taught alongside the first year of the A Level
- the encouragement to develop learners' understanding of the modern world and establish a deeper knowledge and appreciation of world religions
- the opportunity for learners to apply their knowledge and skills to contemporary issues, creating an up-to-date and thoroughly relevant course
- a focus on inspiring and motivating learners, while challenging and developing their perceptions of different world religions
- an emphasis on enabling learners to respond critically and engage with a wealth of philosophical, ethical and religious concepts, equipping them with analytical skills readily transferable to other subjects.

2b. Content of A Level in Religious Studies (H573)

The OCR A Level in Religious Studies will build on the knowledge, understanding and skills established at GCSE (9–1). Learners will be introduced to a more advanced approach to Religious Studies, and will develop a deeper understanding of the beliefs, teachings and philosophy they study.

All learners will study three components; Philosophy of religion (01), Religion and ethics (02) and Developments in religious thought (03–07). Whilst Components 01 and 02 are mandatory, the third will be chosen from the five available options; Christianity (03), Islam (04), Judaism (05), Buddhism (06) or Hinduism (07).

In Philosophy of religion learners will study philosophical issues and questions raised by religion and belief. These include arguments regarding the existence or non-existence of God, the nature and influence of religious experience and the problems of evil and suffering. They will also explore philosophical language and thought, through significant concepts and the works of key thinkers, illustrated in issues or debates in the philosophy of religion.

Religion and ethics is characterised by the study of ethical language and thought, with exploration of key concepts and the works of influential thinkers. Ethical theory will also be applied to issues of importance; namely euthanasia, business ethics, and sexual ethics.

Developments in religious thought provides an opportunity for the systematic study of one religious tradition. This will include the exploration of religious beliefs, values, teachings and practices that shape religious identity, as well as sources of wisdom and authority. Also central are the ways in which religious traditions have developed over time, and religious responses to challenges and significant contemporary social issues.

Using this specification document

All components are divided into six sections, each containing one or two topics depending on the breadth of the material. All six sections contain equivalent material in terms of scope, complexity and anticipated teaching time. Topics marked with an asterisk (*) are common to the AS and A Level courses, although assessed at different levels.

Content, Key Knowledge and Discussion Sections

The column headed 'Content' details the focus of each topic and provides information on the main areas of study.

'Key Knowledge' provides details of the knowledge expected of learners. This third column is included to provide support and transparency for both teachers and students; making it clear what students should study and providing helpful guidance should any concepts be unfamiliar to teachers.

Finally, each topic ends with a section detailing discussion points based on the content. While it is anticipated that discussions of these interesting, relevant and engaging topics will range widely, the listed points are considered to be central debates and issues appropriate for assessment.

These three sections for each topic combine to give a clear outline to teachers and learners of material that is essential for study. Where scholars and texts are stated in the "Key Knowledge" or "Content" sections it is expected that learners would have sufficient knowledge of these to answer a question directly referencing them.

Texts

At the bottom of each topic is a box containing helpful text references. These are intended as guidance only and detailed knowledge of these texts is not expected, and questions will not be set directly referencing them.

Contextual References

Where an individual or their views is cited as within the "Content" or "Key Knowledge" sections we have given context and references for their ideas under this heading. This is to enable teachers, should they wish, to work from the primary source material of these thinkers or easily locate the ideas for their own reference.

Suggested scholarly views, academic approaches and sources of wisdom and authority

This list is included in order to support teachers. These should be considered a 'starting point' or helpful guide to the type of material teachers may wish to use. Items on these lists will not be directly referenced in assessment materials, or specifically expected in responses, but have been included to exemplify the kind of material learners may use to support their answers. This is not to be taken as a definitive or prescriptive list.

The Levels of Response grids, used for the marking of assessments, credit learners for use of "scholarly views, academic approaches and sources of wisdom and authority" to support their arguments. Learners will be given credit for referring to any appropriate scholarly views, academic approaches and sources of wisdom and authority, not only those suggested in the specification document.

2c. Content of Philosophy of religion (H573/01)

This component explores philosophical issues and questions raised by religion and belief.

Ancient philosophical influences provides important foundational knowledge for the study of philosophy of religion. This and Soul, mind and body enable the exploration of philosophical language and thought through significant concepts and the works of key thinkers.

Learners will critically analyse three contrasting arguments regarding the existence of God. Such arguments are a fundamental element of philosophy of religion, as well as key to the personal beliefs of many individuals.

Learners will also be introduced to different types of religious experience, and will be encouraged to discuss and debate the significance and meaning of such experiences, as well as how they can shape religious belief.

The problem of evil and suffering will also be explored. Debated for millennia, this issue is still relevant and problematic for many today.

Through studying the nature of God, learners will explore how ideas within philosophy of religion have developed over time, and make comparisons between the ideas presented in works of key scholars.

Finally, the two sections that focus on religious language give learners the opportunity to examine issues such as whether religious teachings should be understood symbolically or analogically, or whether religious language should be regarded cognitively or non-cognitively.

Technical Terms

While the majority of non-English terms (which are not names of texts, philosophical schools or particular religious approaches) within the specification and assessment materials will be accompanied by a translation, there are some which are considered to be key technical terms that learners are expected to recognise and understand without a provided translation.

For this component the following are considered technical terms and will not necessarily be accompanied by a translation:

- a posteriori
- a priori
- via negativa
- via positiva.

1. Philosophical Language and Thought

Learners will study significant concepts and issues in the philosophy of religion through the works of key thinkers

2c. Content of Religion and ethics (H573/02)

In this component, learners have the opportunity to study key concepts related to religion and ethics.

As part of their study, learners will study four normative ethical theories, providing a range of approaches: deontological and teleological, religious and non-religious. These theories will then be applied to two issues of importance; euthanasia and business ethics. This allows learners to explore contemporary issues and deepen their understanding of the ethical theories.

Within Ethical Language: Meta-ethics, learners will explore how ethical language has changed over time and been interpreted by different individuals.

To develop learners' awareness of the importance of significant concepts within the study of ethics, they will be required to examine the significant ethical concept of conscience, through a comparison of the works of two key thinkers; Aquinas and Freud.

Finally, in Developments in Ethical Thought, learners will examine areas of sexual ethics, a highly relevant and interesting area of study. Learners will explore how attitudes to pre and extra marital sex and homosexuality have influenced and been influenced by developments in religious beliefs, and also how the four normative theories they previously studied can be applied to these areas.

While the majority of non-English terms (which are not names of texts, philosophical schools, or particular religious approaches) given within the specification and assessment materials will be accompanied by a translation, there are some that are considered to be key technical terms that learners are expected to recognise and understand without a provided translation.

For this component, the following are considered technical terms and will not necessarily be accompanied by a translation:

- agape
- conscientia
- ratio
- synderesis
- telos.

Learners should have the opportunity to discuss issues related to ideas about conscience, including:

- comparison between Aquinas and Freud:
  - on the concept of guilt
  - on the presence or absence of God within the workings of the conscience and super-ego
  - on the process of moral decision-making
- whether conscience is linked to, or separate from, reason and the unconscious mind
- whether conscience exists at all or is instead an umbrella term covering various factors involved in moral decision-making, such as culture, environment, genetic predisposition and education

2c. Content of Developments in religious thought (H573/03–07)

The following five components provide learners with the opportunity to undertake an in-depth and broad study of one religion chosen from the following:

- Christianity
- Islam
- Judaism
- Buddhism
- Hinduism

For their chosen religion learners should study the following content:

- religious beliefs, values and teachings, in their interconnections and as they vary historically and in the contemporary world, including those linked to the nature and existence of God, gods or ultimate reality, the role of the community of believers, key moral principles, beliefs about the self, death and afterlife, beliefs about the meaning and purpose of life
- sources of wisdom and authority including, where appropriate, scripture and/or sacred texts and how they are used and treated, key religious figures and/or teachers and their teachings
- practices that shape and express religious identity, including the diversity of practice within a tradition
- significant social and historical developments in theology or religious thought including the challenges of secularisation, science, responses to pluralism and diversity within traditions, migration, the changing roles of men and women, feminist and liberationist approaches

- a comparison of the significant ideas presented in works of at least two key scholars selected from the field of religion and belief
- two themes related to the relationship between religion and society, for example: the relationship between religious and other forms of identity; religion, equality and discrimination; religious freedom; the political and social influence of religious institutions; religious tolerance, respect and recognition and the ways that religious traditions view other religions and non-religious worldviews and their truth claims
- how developments in beliefs and practices have, over time, influenced and been influenced by developments in philosophical, ethical, studies of religion and/or by textual interpretation.

The following pages outline how this required content has been developed for each religious tradition. By following the course of study as it is outlined below, teachers can be assured that learners will cover all required content no matter which religious tradition is chosen as the focus of study.

2c. Content of Developments in Christian thought (H573/03)

In this component, learners have the opportunity to undertake a systematic study of key concepts within the development of Christian thought. Learners will explore religious beliefs, values and teachings, their interconnections, how they have developed historically and how they are presently discussed.

The first section explores human nature in the context of the purpose of life, the self and immortality. Learners will explore Augustine's ideas regarding the human condition, as well as different Christian interpretations of the promise and nature of the afterlife.

In Knowledge of God, both natural and revealed theology will be studied, including the relationship between faith and reason. This will enable discussion of how Christians may understand their relationship with God.

Learners will also explore historical and theological understandings of the person of Jesus Christ. They will consider Jesus as the Son of God, teacher of wisdom and a liberator, which will give them an insight into both traditional and contemporary Christian theology.

In the topic Christian Moral Principles, learners will consider the Bible, Church and reason as sources of wisdom and authority. Through considering the use of these in shaping Christian moral values and practice, this topic will allow learners to investigate the principles that shape and express religious identity, and the diversity of practice within Christianity.

In Christian Moral Action, learners will undertake a detailed study of the ideas and impact of Dietrich Bonhoeffer. This study of Christian moral principles in action will place moral principles in a real-world context, making the study of Christianity more tangible for learners.

A significant development in Christian thought studied is that of pluralism, a vital concept in this age of migration and multi-cultural societies. The two topics which explore this concept enable the consideration of the ways that Christian traditions view other religious and non-religious worldviews. This raises issues of the nature of salvation, religious tolerance, respect and recognition of opposing views.

The changing roles of men and women, and feminist approaches to theology, form the basis of the two further topics. These topics encourage learners to reflect on issues of gender identity, equality and discrimination and the social influence of religious institutions, and provide the opportunity to compare the works of two key scholars.

Finally, this component explores the challenges posed by secularism, and a range of responses to this. These topics enable the study of how developments in beliefs and practices have, over time, influenced and been influenced by developments in philosophy, politics and studies of religion, as well as an investigation into the diversity within Christian practice.

Technical Terms

While the majority of non-English terms (which are not names of texts, philosophical schools, or particular religious approaches) within the specification and assessment materials will be accompanied by a translation, there are some which are considered to be key technical terms that learners are expected to recognise and understand without a provided translation.

For this component, the following are considered technical terms and will not necessarily be accompanied by a translation:

2c. Content of Developments in Islamic thought (H573/04)

In this component, learners have the opportunity to undertake a systematic study of key concepts within the development of Islamic thought. Learners will explore religious beliefs, values and teachings, their interconnections, how they have developed historically and how they are presently discussed.

By studying the role of prophecy, revelation and tradition learners will develop an understanding of Islamic sources of wisdom and authority, including scripture and key religious figures, and how these influence the beliefs and practices that shape and express Islamic religious identity.

In exploring Islamic ideas about the nature and existence of God, learners will be introduced to different theological and philosophical views, enabling them to consider the diversity within the Islamic tradition.

The topic Human Destiny explores Islamic ideas regarding the self and the meaning and purpose of life, as well as the afterlife. This study will give learners an insight into the motivations and spiritual goals of Muslims.

The Shari'a is an important area of study which will deepen learners' understanding of the Islamic community; their religious leaders and the interpretation and application of scripture and tradition in everyday life.

In studying Sufism, learners will explore a mystical dimension of Islam and the way in which this is practised. This topic enables discussion of a distinct and interesting approach to Islam, highlighting its diversity.

By looking at the transmission of scientific and philosophical knowledge, learners will be able to reflect upon the cultural interaction between Islam and the West over the course of history. Science and Philosophy enables discussion of Muslim contributions to areas of scientific learning and also a comparison of the ideas from two key scholars: Abu Hamid al-Ghazali and Ibn Rushd (Averroes).

The next topic focuses on the changing cultural norms in relation to gender. An area of debate which will be familiar to learners, this topic enables the study of Islam to be made especially relevant to issues central to modern society, as well as the lives of Muslim men and women around the world.

In Tolerance, learners will be able to explore how Muslims relate to members of other faiths and belief systems. This topic will also look at important issues and challenges related to religious freedom in Muslim society.

In the topic Justice and Liberation, learners will explore issues related to social liberation and protection of rights, including the study of two key scholars; Ali Shari'ati and Abdal Hakim Murad.

In Islam and the State, learners will undertake the important exploration of changing ideas about the relationship between Islam and political systems, in particular the challenge of secularisation and modernity.

Finally in Islam in Europe, learners will discuss the issues and challenges raised by migration and multiculturalism, related to Muslims living as minorities in modern, Western, secular societies.

Technical Terms

While the majority of non-English terms (which are not names of texts, philosophical schools, or particular religious approaches) given within the specification and assessment materials will be accompanied by a translation, there are some that are considered to be key technical terms that learners are expected to recognise and understand without a provided translation.

For this component, the following are considered technical terms and will not necessarily be accompanied by a translation:

- Barzakh
- Hadith
- Hijab
- Ijtihad
- Sira.

The spelling of words which have been transliterated from non-Roman alphabets will be used consistently through the assessment materials. Learners will not be penalised for the use of other common spellings.

2c. Content of Developments in Jewish thought (H573/05)

In this component, learners have the opportunity to undertake a systematic study of key concepts within the development of Jewish thought. Learners will explore religious beliefs, values and teachings, their interconnections, how they have developed historically and how they are presently discussed.

In Jewish Oral and Written Law learners will examine the Babylonian Talmud and Pirkei Avot as sources of wisdom and authority. This topic will enable learners to consider the authority of scripture as the word of G-d and investigate the development of rabbinic law.

The idea of covenant is central to Judaism, and through studying the Abrahamic and Mosaic covenants learners will develop their understanding of the role these texts and ideas play in the Jewish conception of G-d and Jewish identity.

Learners will also explore the writings of Maimonides as a source of authority and wisdom within Judaism. This study of a key figure is designed to give learners an insight into the development of medieval Judaism and demonstrate the impact of Maimonides' thinking.

To explore Jewish ideas about Suffering and Hope learners will study key texts and the concept of messianic hope, in order to develop their understanding of core theological thinking within Judaism, including ideas about the nature of human life and death.

Halakhah explores practices that shape and express religious identity, and the diversity of practice within Judaism. Further, in Conversion, learners will study responses to conversion from biblical times through to the modern day.

The historical change and development brought about by the challenge of secularisation forms a key area of study. In studying The Jewish Haskalah and Jewish Emancipation, learners will look at Mendelssohn and the development of Jewish self-consciousness. Learners will investigate the idea of cultural assimilation and the birth of the reform movement.

Learners will also explore the more contemporary issues of the development of Zionism and The State of Israel and will consider the relationship between these areas and biblical ideals. Further, these topics highlight recent, key political thinking within Judaism.

Gender and Relationships will continue the study of Jewish emancipation, with a detailed investigation into feminist theology.

Post-Holocaust Theology and Chagall: Art as Spiritual Resistance will encourage learners to reflect on the question of the existence of G-d post-Holocaust. Issues of religious tolerance, respect, equality and discrimination will be studied in this section alongside social and historical developments in thought.

While the majority of non-English terms (which are not names of texts, philosophical schools, or particular religious approaches) within the specification and assessment materials will be accompanied by a translation, there are some that are considered to be key technical terms that learners are expected to recognise and understand without a provided translation.

For this component, the following are considered technical terms and will not necessarily be accompanied by a translation:

- Agunah
- Halakhah

- Kibbutzim
- Mitzvot
- Mikveh
- Niddah
- Parve
- Shehitah
- Shemittah
- Shohet
- Trefah.

The spelling of words which have been transliterated from non-Roman alphabets will be used consistently through the assessment materials. Learners will not be penalised for the use of other common spellings.

2c. Content of Developments in Buddhist thought (H573/06)

In this component, learners have the opportunity to undertake a systematic study of key concepts within the development of Buddhist thought. Learners will explore religious beliefs, values and teachings, their interconnections, how they have developed historically and how they are presently discussed.

This component examines the foundations of Buddhism, investigating both the significance and context of the Buddha as a source of wisdom and authority, as well as the importance of the Three Refuges in expressing Buddhist identity and acting as the underlying principles of Buddhist teachings.

The key teachings of Buddhism and their interconnections form the basis of the topics Samsara, The Three Marks and the Four Noble Truths. Exploration of these will provide students with insight into Buddhist beliefs about ultimate reality, the self, the meaning of life and death. These teachings also form the foundations of Buddhist practice and key moral principles.

The practice of meditation is studied in detail, with an emphasis on the personal nature of meditative practice and the diversity of methods used by Buddhists.

The development of Mahayana Buddhism was pivotal in the historical development of Buddhism, and the distinctive ideas and philosophy of these schools, including the Madhyamaka, will stretch and challenge learners, introducing them to the truly diverse range of ideas and traditions within Buddhism.

Learners will further develop their understanding of the variety within Buddhist tradition by examining Buddhist practices and ideas in two very different cultural contexts: the Far East and the West. This will enable them to investigate different interpretations of Buddhist teachings and examine the relationship between religion and society.

This investigation continues in the topic considering Engaged Buddhism and Activism, which enables students to focus on how this interesting and modern approach to Buddhism responds to issues and ideas highly relevant to learners and the world around them.

The final topic explores the changing roles of men and women across history, societies and Buddhist traditions. These issues will be familiar and relevant to learners, and enable discussion of identity, equality, discrimination, religious freedom and the relationship between religion and society.

Technical Terms

While the majority of non-English terms (which are not names of texts, philosophical schools, or particular religious approaches) within the specification and assessment materials will be accompanied by a translation, there are some that are considered to be key technical terms that learners are expected to recognise and understand without a provided translation.

For this component, the following are considered technical terms and will not necessarily be accompanied by a translation:

- Bodhisattva
- Buddha

- Dhamma/Dharma
- Jhana
- Kamma/Karma
- Nibbana/Nirvana
- Samatha
- Samsara
- Sangha/Samgha
- Skandhas
- Vipassana.

The spelling of words which have been transliterated from non-Roman alphabets will be used consistently through the assessment materials. Learners will not be penalised for the use of other common spellings.

2c. Content of Developments in Hindu thought (H573/07)

In this component, learners have the opportunity to undertake a systematic study of key concepts within the development of Hindu thought. Learners will explore religious beliefs, values and teachings, their interconnections, how they have developed historically and how they are presently discussed.

The foundations of Hinduism are studied within Development and Diversity and Wisdom and Authority. Learners will explore the historical development of Hinduism, and also the role of a variety of scriptures and holy persons as sources of wisdom. Through this, they will gain an understanding of the shared roots of modern Hinduism as well as the diversity of modern Hindu practice.

Learners will also consider key concepts within Hinduism, including Brahman and the Self, Samsara and Karma. Through these topics learners will gain insight into religious beliefs, values and teachings. Ideas which will be explored will include beliefs about the self and the relationship between self and Brahma, together with ideas about the meaning and purpose of human life.

In The Concept of Dharma learners will discuss key moral principles and their foundations, whilst in Living in Accordance with Dharma the ways in which these principles influence Hindu life and practice are examined.

Learners will undertake an in-depth study of Vedanta and its approach to Hindu ideas. They will explore its origins, development and a variety of forms of Vedanta, and undertake a comparison of key thinkers. This study of one of the orthodox schools of Hindu philosophy will allow learners to engage in detailed critical analysis, and appreciate the philosophical nature of Hinduism.

In Hinduism as 'Religion' learners will engage with the complex status of Hinduism as a single 'religion', engaging with what this term means, its origins and criticisms of it. They will also explore the different goals of Hindu paths and critically discuss whether or not they can be viewed as one religion.

The final topics of this component place Hinduism within its social context, both in India and in the West. In the topic focusing on India learners will study the relationship between religion and society, including the influence of Hinduism on Indian identity, and ideas of religious freedom and pluralism.

In Hinduism and the West learners will explore the ways in which the spread of Hinduism through migration has influenced its development. They will consider the role of popular culture and famous figures such as Gandhi, demonstrating the relevance of Hinduism as an area of study and engaging students through familiar ideas.

Finally, learners will analyse Hindu responses to contemporary social issues, focusing on ideas of equality and discrimination. By examining these ideas learners will develop an insight into the ways in which cultural context impacts on religious belief and vice versa. Issues of gender and discrimination are key to today's society and so learners will again be able to appreciate the relevance of their studies to the world in which they live.

While the majority of non-English terms (which are not names of texts, philosophical schools, or particular religious approaches) within the specification and assessment materials will be accompanied by a translation, there are some which are considered to be key technical terms that learners are expected to recognise and understand without a provided translation.

For this component the following are considered technical terms and will not necessarily be accompanied by a translation:

- Adharma
- Brahman

- Dalit
- Devi/Shakti
- Dharma
- Karma
- Samsara
- Varna
- Varnasharamadharmā.

The spelling of words which have been transliterated from non-Roman alphabets will be used consistently through the assessment materials. Learners will not be penalised for the use of other common spellings.

2d. Prior knowledge, learning and progression

Learners undertaking this A Level course are likely to have followed a Key Stage 4 programme of study in Religious Studies, and this specification builds on the knowledge, understanding and skills specified for GCSE (9–1) Religious Studies. However, prior knowledge of the subject is not a requirement.

OCR's A Level in Religious Studies provides a suitable foundation for the study of Religious Studies, related courses or those using the same skills of analysis, evaluation and extended written argument in Further and Higher Education.

In addition, due to its highly relevant, engaging material, study of contemporary issues, and emphasis on critical analysis it also offers a worthwhile course of study for learners who do not wish to progress onto a higher level of education. The various skills required, and the range of knowledge which will be developed, also provide a strong foundation for progression directly in to employment.

3 Assessment of A Level in Religious Studies (H573)

3a. Forms of assessment

For OCR's A Level in Religious Studies learners will study three components that are externally assessed, these are:

- Philosophy of religion (01)
- Religion and ethics (02)
- Developments in religious thought (03–07)

Components 01 and 02 are mandatory. In addition, learners will study one from the Developments in religious thought options: Christianity (03), Islam (04), Judaism (05), Buddhism (06) or Hinduism (07).

The exam for each component will be worth 120 marks and represents 33.3% of the total marks for A Level. These exams will take the form of an externally assessed written papers lasting 2 hours each and testing both AO1 and AO2.

Each paper will contain four essay questions, with the learner choosing three out of the four to answer. Questions can target material from any area of the specification. Two questions might be set from one specification section, or all questions might be from different sections. In order to guarantee access to the full range of marks for the assessment all specification content should be covered. Each essay will be worth 40 marks and will test both AO1 and AO2. Responses will be assessed via a level of response mark scheme.

On each paper, beneath the essay questions, are instructions to learners reminding them of the knowledge and skills expected in their responses as per the Assessment Objectives. In these instructions, where reference is made to 'religion and belief' it should be noted that 'belief' does not just mean the beliefs of a particular religion, but can encompass views and opinions from a variety of perspectives, religious or not.

3b. Assessment objectives (AO)

There are two Assessment Objectives in OCR A Level in Religious Studies. These are detailed in the table below.

Learners are expected to demonstrate their ability to:

	Assessment Objective
A01	Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of religion and belief, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>religious, philosophical and/or ethical thought and teaching</li><li>influence of beliefs, teachings and practices on individuals, communities and societies</li><li>cause and significance of similarities and differences in belief, teaching and practice</li><li>approaches to the study of religion and belief.</li></ul>	40%
A02	Analyse and evaluate aspects of, and approaches to, religion and belief, including their significance, influence and study.	60%

AO weightings in A Level in Religious Studies

The relationship between the assessment objectives and the components are shown in the following table:

Component	% of overall A level in Religious Studies (H573)
	A01	A02
Philosophy of religion (H573/01)	13.3	20
Religion and ethics (H573/02)	13.3	20
Developments in religious thought (H573/03–07)	13.3	20
Total	40	60

3c. Total qualification time

Total qualification time (TQT) is the total amount of time, in hours, expected to be spent by a learner to achieve a qualification. It includes both guided learning hours and hours spent in preparation, study, and assessment. The total qualification time for A Level in Religious Studies is 360 hours. The total guided learning time is 360 hours.

3d. Assessment availability

There will be one examination series available each year in May/June to all learners. All examined components must be taken in the same examination series at the end of the course. This specification will be certificated from the June 2018 examination series onwards.

3e. Retaking the qualification

Learners can retake the qualification as many times as they wish.

They must retake components 01 and 02, plus one from 03–07 in the same examination series.

3f. Assessment of extended response

The assessment materials for this qualification provide learners with the opportunity to demonstrate their ability to construct and develop a sustained and coherent line of reasoning.

Marks for extended responses are integrated into the marking criteria.

3g. Synoptic assessment

Synoptic assessment targets learners' understanding of the connections between different elements of the subject.

Synoptic assessment is present in all A Level components, as they draw together both of the distinct assessment objectives in OCR's A Level in Religious Studies.

It is also present due to the nature of the content and questions for all components. Learners can respond to questions in a variety of ways, using a wide range of possible material from across topics and components. All legitimate approaches and interpretations will be credited.

3h. Calculating qualification results

A learner's overall qualification grade for A Level in Religious Studies will be calculated by adding together their marks from the three components taken to give their total weighted mark. This mark will then be compared to the qualification level grade boundaries for the entry option taken by the learner and for the relevant exam series to determine the learner's overall qualification grade.

4 Admin: what you need to know

The information in this section is designed to give an overview of the processes involved in administering this qualification so that you can speak to your exams officer. All of the following processes require you to submit something to OCR by a specific deadline.

More information about the processes and deadlines involved at each stage of the assessment cycle can be found in the Administration area of the OCR website.

OCR's Admin overview is available on the OCR website at <http://www.ocr.org.uk/administration>.

4a. Pre-assessment

Estimated entries

Estimated entries are your best projection of the number of learners who will be entered for a qualification in a particular series. Estimated entries should be submitted to OCR by the specified deadline. They are free and do not commit your centre in any way.

Final entries

Final entries provide OCR with detailed data for each learner, showing each assessment to be taken. It is essential that you use the correct entry code, considering the relevant entry rules.

Final entries must be submitted to OCR by the published deadlines or late entry fees will apply.

All learners taking an A Level in Religious Studies must be entered for one of the following entry options:

Entry code	Title	Component code	Component title	Assessment type
H573 A	Religious Studies Option A	01	Philosophy of religion	External Assessment
		02	Religion and ethics	External Assessment
		03	Developments in Christian thought	External Assessment
H573 B	Religious Studies Option B	01	Philosophy of religion	External Assessment
		02	Religion and ethics	External Assessment
		04	Developments in Islamic thought	External Assessment
H573 C	Religious Studies Option C	01	Philosophy of religion	External Assessment
		02	Religion and ethics	External Assessment
		05	Developments in Jewish thought	External Assessment

Entry code	Title	Component code	Component title	Assessment type
H573 D	Religious Studies Option D	01	Philosophy of religion	External Assessment
		02	Religion and ethics	External Assessment
		06	Developments in Buddhist thought	External Assessment
H573 E	Religious Studies Option E	01	Philosophy of religion	External Assessment
		02	Religion and ethics	External Assessment
		07	Developments in Hindu thought	External Assessment

4b. Special consideration

Special consideration is a post–assessment adjustment to marks or grades to reflect temporary injury, illness or other indisposition at the time the assessment was taken.

Detailed information about eligibility for special consideration can be found in the JCQ publication A guide to the special consideration process.

4c. External assessment arrangements

Regulations governing examination arrangements are contained in the JCQ Instructions for conducting examinations.

Head of Centre annual declaration

The Head of Centre is required to provide a declaration to the JCQ as part of the annual NCN update, conducted in the autumn term, to confirm that the centre is meeting all of the requirements detailed in the specification.

Any failure by a centre to provide the Head of Centre Annual Declaration will result in your centre status being suspended and could lead to the withdrawal of our approval for you to operate as a centre.

Private candidates

Private candidates may enter for OCR assessments.

A private candidate is someone who pursues a course of study independently but takes an examination or assessment at an approved examination centre. A private candidate may be a part-time student, someone taking a distance learning course, or someone being tutored privately. They must be based in the UK.

Private candidates need to contact OCR approved centres to establish whether they are prepared to host them as a private candidate. The centre may charge for this facility and OCR recommends that the arrangement is made early in the course.

Further guidance for private candidates may be found on the OCR website: <http://www.ocr.org.uk>

4d. Results and certificates

Grade Scale

A level qualifications are graded on the scale: A*, A, B, C, D, E, where A* is the highest. Learners who fail to reach the minimum standard for E will be Unclassified (U). Only subjects in which grades A* to E are attained will be recorded on certificates.

Results

Results are released to centres and learners for information and to allow any queries to be resolved before certificates are issued.

Centres will have access to the following results information for each learner:

- the grade for the qualification
- the raw mark for each component
- the total weighted mark for the qualification.

The following supporting information will be available:

- raw mark grade boundaries for each component
- weighted mark grade boundaries for the qualification.

Until certificates are issued, results are deemed to be provisional and may be subject to amendment.

A learner's final results will be recorded on an OCR certificate. The qualification title will be shown on the certificate as 'OCR Level 3 Advanced GCE in Religious Studies'.

4e. Post-results services

A number of post-results services are available:

- Review of results – If you are not happy with the outcome of a learner's results, centres may request a review of marking.
- Missing and incomplete results – This service should be used if an individual subject result for a learner is missing, or the learner has been omitted entirely from the results supplied.
- Access to scripts – Centres can request access to marked scripts.

4f. Malpractice

Any breach of the regulations for the conduct of examinations and non-exam assessment work may constitute malpractice (which includes maladministration) and must be reported to OCR as soon as it is detected.

Detailed information on malpractice can be found in the JCQ publication Suspected Malpractice in Examinations and Assessments: Policies and Procedures.

5 Appendices

5a. Overlap with other qualifications

There is no overlap with any other existing qualifications.

5b. Accessibility

Reasonable adjustments and access arrangements allow learners with special educational needs, disabilities or temporary injuries to access the assessment and show what they know and can do, without changing the demands of the assessment. Applications for these should be made before the examination series. Detailed information about eligibility for access arrangements can be found in the JCQ Access Arrangements and Reasonable Adjustments.

The A level qualification and subject criteria have been reviewed in order to identify any feature which could disadvantage learners who share a protected Characteristic as defined by the Equality Act 2010. All reasonable steps have been taken to minimise any such disadvantage.

5c. Teaching approaches in context for Developments of Religious Thought (03–07)

<sup>5</sup> Dawkins forms part of the key knowledge for this topic, his criticisms of Christianity have their foundation in modern science; Dawkins himself is not a theologian but a biologist, and so study of him inherently involves the study of science. All of Dawkins’ arguments regarding the infantile nature of religious belief have their foundations in his belief that the “correct” way to approach knowledge in the modern age is through scientific means.

<sup>6</sup> Upaya (skilful means) is a teaching regarding the multiplicity of ways in which one can achieve wisdom and enlightenment and it is specified for study in this topic. This teaching is one reason why Buddhism has little problem acknowledging the truth claims of other faiths and therefore “pluralism” is not a relevant term to use.

<sup>7</sup> “Liberation Theology” is a Christian development, specifically developing in the Catholic tradition. The Encyclopaedia Britannica begins its definition with the following paragraph:

“Liberation theology, religious movement arising in late 20th-century Roman Catholicism and centred in Latin America. It sought to apply religious faith by aiding the poor and oppressed through involvement in political and civic affairs. It stressed both heightened awareness of the “sinful” socioeconomic structures that caused social inequities and active participation in changing those structures.”

In order to capture the “Liberationist approach” in the faiths other than Christianity, these have topics or issues which focus on the liberation of oppressed groups, such as women, and the efforts of modern theology to engage these groups more in both religious and civic life.

<sup>8</sup> The study of the role of Islam in affecting the liberation of oppressed groups, and also discussion of the liberation of women, here captures the “Liberationist” approach

<sup>9</sup> Haskalah and Post Holocaust Theology deal with ideas surrounding the emancipation of the Jewish people, whilst Gender discusses the liberation of women.

<sup>10</sup> Buddhism and Activism involves discussion of Buddhist opposition to oppression and injustice (including ideas of emancipation); also Gender discusses ideas about the liberation of women

<sup>11</sup> These topics discuss the liberation and emancipation of dalits and women, therefore capturing the liberationist approach
